

SIGNS ON THE BOWERY

WHAT ONE MAY SEE ON NEW YORK'S FAMOUS THOROUGHFARE.

The Most Distinguishing Feature of a Street That Has a Worldwide Reputation—An Avenue Where Are Found People of All Nationalities.

To those students of human nature who are quick to see the weak side of every character save their own, a trip up the Bowery and Park row is always fruitful of good results. There are so many sights, sounds and scenes novel and interesting in the stirring comedy drama, "Struggle for Bread," that the student cannot help feeling amused and interested. Then, too, the fact that nearly every one he meets is poorer than himself imparts the zest of complacency to his pilgrimage, and he steps among the hungry and wretched and the happy and careless, keeps his hand on his pocketbook and his eyes on the shifting panorama of life and makes notes.

The signs are the first things that take the wanderer's eye. He notes "A Regular Dinner for thirteen Cents" and "Two Genuine Imported Havanas for Five Cents" with interest. He feels that his barber charges him too much when he sees that he can receive a razor shave for five cents, with the added luxury of a hot towel for ten cents, and that a clean towel is guaranteed with every shave.

A large and gaudy cartoon, extolling the merits of the "Flor de Magie Cline Cigar" attracts his attention. A small footnote says that it is changed every day, and that while the merits of the cigar will be dwelt lovingly upon, yet the cartoons will also deal with timely topics.

A clothing store near by has a big black signboard stating that this is the headquarters of the "Society for Encouraging the Wearing of Clean Shirts," whereof the proprietor is president. He cannot but feel that the society is at once beneficial, salutary and situated in its proper field, Park row.

The notice over a dingy doorway that "black eyes will be made to look natural for ten cents" causes him some vague apprehension, as it is a silent witness that he is in the land of fistfists and assault and battery.

But contemplation of the chalk written words that "El Delmonico lunch goes with every glass of beer" gives rise to more kindly feelings, and he soon forgets his fears.

A red nosed man rapping with a rat-tan at a large and startling representation of "The Wonderful Monstrousity, Jumboto, the Elephant Boy, Half Elephant, Half Human, Now to Be Seen Alive Inside" holds him awhile. But he feels sure it is a fake and drifts on to the "Action Sale."

A sharp eyed person in his shirt sleeves is extolling the merits of a solid gold, full jeweled, stem winding, American movement watch, cased, chased, turned and beveled, going at the ridiculously low price of four dollars. Customers are urging victims to buy, pullers in are bawling the auction to all who pass and the hurdy gurdy behind the dime museum screen tries vainly to drown their cries by its jerky rendering of "Comrades, comrades, over since we were boys," while the man at the door still raps the counterfeit visage of the elephant boy and cries that the admission is but a dime.

The crowd thickens; evening comes on. The "oysters and clams one cent" man lights his torch. Chinamen, blossoming, pigtailed, heading for Chinatown, Italians with pushcarts, turning toward the docks, Greeks bound for James street, negroes for South Fifth avenue, Germans for Avenue A, Hebrews for Eldridge street, all homeward bound, work worn and weary, hurry past. "Beef steak John's" is crowded. The fifteen cent lodging houses have each their score of loungers at their dingy portals.

It is night. Now the shooting galleries light up and the "ring" begins. Of the 22-caliber bullets, ring down against the sheet iron targets. Men lurk in alleyways and slink out to demand alms. A crowd of rosters comes down arm in arm. They are college boys, down on the Bowery for fun.

A one eyed man has song sheets for sale. He cries his wares and sells several copies to the youths.

The variety theaters open their doors and the Bowery amusement seeker surges in to see the Irish-American Four and McGuffin and McGuffin, the king pins of song and dance.

The German and Hebrew theaters are open, too, and have their crowds also. The Elite Lady orchestra has tuned up in the concert halls, and the Bowery is at its best.

The bell at the family resort is clanging for the first time, and the ticket seller opens his little window and gets his change ready.

The clothing store "barkers" redouble their efforts to catch trade by manual force, and the Bowery roars with sounds of life and trade. Sailors, longshoremen, mechanics, all out for drink and recreation, make up the crowd.

A new venture, the "two-and-a-half-cent-a-cup" poolroom, has done much good business that rivals have sprung up on every side. These places are all crowded. The frequenters are for the most part old looking, low browed youths of eighteen or twenty years of age. They crowd the tables and bowery argot makes their conversation almost unintelligible to the uninitiated.

The notice that "no profane or vulgar language is allowed" seems sarcastic. It is as funny in a place as "Bowery" where for Broadway goods" is in the Cheap John clothing store. And the student of human nature notes it in his memory along with the sign—

"If I Rest I Rust. No Rest No Rust. No Trust No Bust. All Drinks 5 Cents."

Swiss Nobility.

A few years ago the question was asked, "Does nobility exist in Switzerland?" And no one was able to answer it. Of all the thousand of English folk who haunt the Swiss hotels in summer not one, it would seem, had inquired whether that Rudolph von Erbach, whose equestrian statue they must have seen, has any living descendants; not one had ever heard of the Barmse nobility—a noblesse which holds itself so high that it thinks but slightly of the British legation. Yet from the Jura to the Lugane there is hardly a canton—there is perhaps no canton—in which noble families are not to be found.

Some of these, such as the Plantas and the Buols of the Grabunden, have turned their energy into modern channels and make their fortunes, like the Hausers or the Sellers, out of the English and the American tourists. Others, like the Von Allmen, have sunk into a humbler rank. But the greater part remain in statu quo, still enjoying in the towns or in the country a social prestige that varies with their wealth and their intelligence.—Temple Bar.

Early Methods of Curing Skins.

The original process of curing skins was probably the simple one of cleaning and drying them. Removal of the hair by maceration in water seems to have been common among the very early tribes, and one writer has suggested that the idea was obtained from the natural process of depilation. They must certainly have been familiar with it in the case of drowned animals, where maceration can be plainly observed. Following this, smoke, sour milk, oil, and the brains of the animals themselves were found efficacious. Many of these primitive methods are employed at the present time, this bringing into novel connection the days of the roving Masagetas and those of the thrifty American.—George A. Rich in Popular Science Monthly.

Duel of Two Girls.

At Charkoff, Russia, two girls who were friends fell in love with the same young man. He was slow to make his selection between them. They agreed that either could win him if delivered of the baneful competition of the other. They decided upon a duel by drawing lots. On the day following one of the young ladies was found dead in her room. She had poisoned herself with phosphorus. But her friend is broken down with sorrow and remorse. It is more than likely that she will not live to enjoy the fruits of her victory.—Paris Letter.

Angles in New Telescopes.

In the new form of telescope for stadia work spider lines are entirely omitted, and instead a prism is placed so as to cover one-half the objective of the telescope, the consequence being that the rays passing through the prism make an angle with the rays passing through the unobscured half of the objective, and this angle is constant whatever the distance of the object observed.—New York Times.

Pretty Poor Pickings.

Findings are popularly supposed to belong to the sweeper, but one of the street sweepers of Portland observes that his is a very disappointing job. He has found only a one cent piece and a short lead pencil during his term of office and is disgusted with politics.—Lewiston Journal.
